

Jamie McClenaghan

Associate, Dataminr, Dublin, Ireland

jamie.mcclenaghan@ucdconnect.ie — +353 83 3707 593 — <https://github.com/mcclenjam>

RESEARCH INTERESTS

Party competition, electoral behaviour, political communication, political psychology, political parties

EDUCATION

University College Dublin, Ireland
Master of Science in Politics & Data Science

September 2022 — August 2023
First-Class Honours

University College Dublin, Ireland
Bachelor of Arts in Politics & International Relations

September 2017 — May 2021
First-Class Honours

PROJECTS

Irish Political Policy Document Database
Project manager

Dublin, Ireland
May 2023 — November 2023

- Compiled, edited, and manually coded policy position papers of all Irish political parties from 2011 - 2023.
- Created R Shiny app providing an interactive dashboard to access the database.

Working Papers

- McClenaghan, J. (2024). The media and left-populist dominance; an analysis of coverage of Sinn Féin during the 2020 Irish general election.

OTHER EXPERIENCES

Dataminr
Associate

Dublin, Ireland
April 2022 — Present

- Assisted in the creation of a new product department monitoring election-related news and sentiment with the aid of proprietary AI.
- Contributed to the development of LLM (large language model) models focused on monitoring military and political events.

SKILLS

- Programming: R, SPSS, Stata, Python, HTML, CSS, \LaTeX
- Languages: English (fluent), Irish (fluent), French (intermediate)

REFERENCES

Dr. Thomas Daubler

Assistant Professor, School of Politics and International Relations, University College Dublin, Ireland
E-mail: thomas.daubler@ucd.ie

Dr. Samuel Johnston

ERC Fellow in Politics, School of Politics and International Relations, University College Dublin, Ireland
E-mail: samuel.johnston1@ucd.ie

Dr. Jesper Lindqvist

Postdoctoral, Department of Political Science, University of Gothenburg, Sweden
E-mail: jesper.lindqvist@gu.se